Enterprise Employee Handbook

Document Type: Employee Handbook

Version: 1.0 | Effective Date: 1 October 2026

1. Workplace Conduct

Employees are expected to maintain professional conduct, communicate respectfully, protect company information, and follow applicable workplace policies.

2. Information Security

Company credentials must remain confidential. Employees must not share passwords or authentication tokens. Sensitive business information should only be accessed for authorized work purposes.

3. IT Support

Technical issues should be reported through the company IT support portal. Critical incidents affecting business operations should be reported immediately to the IT support team.

4. Remote Work

Employees working remotely must use approved devices and secure networks, keep company data protected, and remain available during their assigned working hours.

5. Expense Management

Business expenses must be submitted with valid receipts and should comply with the company's expense policy and approval requirements.
